

Tastings article Jancis Robinson 5 Feb 2016

Eva Fricke, Riesling trocken 2014 Rheingau

Notably intense, winning nose, already quite developed with real spice - pimento? - and structure on the palate. Most impressive quality for an estate Riesling. Great tingle on the finish. VG

Eva Fricke, Kiedricher Riesling trocken 2014 Rheingau

Upper Rheingau with sandy loess, loam, quartzite and clay.
Floral and blossomy on the nose. Mouth filling with marked acidity. Still quite youthful. Grapefruit-peel sensation.

Eva Fricke, Lorch Riesling trocken 2014 Rheingau

Lower Rheingau with slate and quartzite.
Very different from the Kiedrich wine - more obviously mineral rather than fruit and veg. Excellent extract, structure and tension. This one should run and run. Very precise indeed. Exciting already but it will surely open out. Super-refreshing and juicy.

Eva Fricke, Lorch Off Dry Riesling 2014 Rheingau

Broad and open with some blossom that on the nose almost recalls the Kiedrich trocken more than the Lorch trocken from this producer, but on the palate the acidity is quite marked. A tad sweet and sour.
